MAUGHAN STARTS ON FLIGHT OVER COUNTRY IN DAY

Flyer Uses Curtiss Plane to Make Flight From Coast
to Coast in Day.

BLAZING NEW TRAIL

Maughan Expects to Maintain
Speed Rate of 160 Miles Per Hour.

(By the Associated Press)
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 9.— Lieut. R. L. Maughan, attempting a coast to coast daylight flight, was forced down
at Avenue City, Mo., 10 miles northeast of here today.

He said his engine had "gone dead" and that he had been compelled to land in a field near Avenue City. He stated that he had not been hurt but that his plane was so badly damaged that he could not proceed. He will make another start from New York within a week or 10 days, he said.

Motor cars left immediately for Avenue City to bring the airplane here.

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y.: July 9.
—Lieut. Russell L. Maughan, U. S.
A., piloting a Curtiss pursuit plane,
hopped off at 4:56 this morning,
eastern standard time, on the first leg of a dawn to dusk flight across the continent.

The flight in which it is intended to reach the Pacific by the light of a single day, was begun in a dawn of high visibility which held promise of excellent flying weather.
The first leg of the flight will be to Dayton, Ohio.

The start was made as a light
purple mass of fog which drifted down Long Island before dawn lifted.
Maughan, flying with his plane
stripped to the bare necessities, circled once about the field after rising in the air. His take off was witnessed by officials of the flying corps and officials of the aviation chamber of commerce.

Lieut. Maughan expects to reach San Francisco in 16 1/2 hours of daylight flying. The distance is estimated at 2,640 miles and an average rate of flying at 160 miles per hour will be maintained.

Four stops will be made: McCook field, Dayton, Ohio; Municipal field at St. Joseph, Missouri; Air Mail field, Cheyenne, Wyoming; and Salsdore, Utah.

The object of the flight, said
Maj. W. R. Weaver, commanding officer here, is to blaze a trail
for the transportation in one day of fleets of airplanes from coast to coast in the event of an attack on the United States by a hostile force. It will also show, he said, the proper sites for establishing landing fields.

Fair Weather Promised.

Lieut. Maughan was promised fair weather, except in Montana and Utah, where thunder showers are expected. If necessary, Lieut. Maughan said, he will add a few miles to his trip in order to fly around the storms. He hopes, however, to fly over them. The flight was several times postponed because of stormy weather.

Lieut. Maughan plans to fly 170 miles an hour over the plains and 160 over the mountains. He will fly at an altitude of 2,000 feet above level ground and increase it to 5,000 feet in the Alleghany mountain region and to greater heights
over the Rockies.

The Curtiss pursuit plane in which he is making the flight has a 400 h. p. D-12 engine with a wing spread of 32 feet. The machine will carry 162 gallons of gasoline, 9 1/2 gallons of oil and 21 1/2 gallons of water. The weight of the plane was estimated when it hopped off at 3,300 pounds.

Lieut. Maughan is 29 years old and a native of Logan, Utah. He is married and has two small children.
He wears a Distinguished Service cross and is credited with having brought down four enemy planes
during the war.

DAYTON, O., July 9.—Lieut.
Maughan arrived at Dayton at 9:10 o'clock, eastern standard time, today and hopped off on the second leg of his flight at 9:35.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.: July 9.—
Lieut. Maughan flew over Springfield this morning at 12:22, central standard time.

Springfield is approximately 190
miles from Indianapolis. This distance was negotiated in one hour and ten minutes. This indicates that Lieut. Maughan is keeping up his stride of 160 miles per hour.

Seeress Bids Hungarian Star-Seek Amecian Fame

BUDAPEST, July 9.—Do the stars make stars? Not astral bodies, but stage luminaries.
Wait and you shall see what you shall see.

For Mlle. Edith Giorgi, the seventeen-year-old film and stage sensation, is coming to the Los Angeles mecca of filmdom seeking the elusive will-o'-the-wisp, fame and fortune.

And the stars—not of the film
variety—are sending the little Hungarian beauty westward.

For a seeress who is won't to commune with the heavenly bodies has advised the child actress that wealth, fame and perhaps even a handsome, millionaire, American husband awaits her in America.

Many aspiring girls have hied themselves Los Angelesward on less provocation.

Mlle. Edith has been on the stage
eleven out of her seventeen years.
She began her career under auspicious circumstances at the age of six by appearing before the late Emperor Francis Joseph in the days when Vienna was one of Europe's play spots.

From then on until the outbreak of the World War she was a favorite with the mighty princes of the Hapsburg regime and the idol
of the dual monarchy.

Mlle. Giorgi is confident that success, fame, everything that the stars promise—according to the seeress—will crown her work in the United States.

BODIES OF LOST AVATORS FOUND

Fishing Boat Finds Basket in Which Roth Perished;
Null Body Found.

(By the Associated Press)
PORT STANLEY, Ont., July 9.
—The body of Lieut. L. J. Roth, pilot of the ill-fated United States naval balloon A-6698, was found in the basket of the airship 14 miles southwest of here this morning.

The basket for which a vain
search had been made by air planes, flying boats and other agencies for three days, was picked up by a fishing boat commanded by Captain George Wilson of Port Stanley.

No trace was found of Lieut.
T. B. Null who accompanied Lieut.
Roth as aid when the balloon left Indianapolis last Wednesday. The basket was towed into port by Captain Wilson and the body was temporarily placed in a fish house
after being reported to the police.

Evidence that Lieut. Roth died of exposure was seen in the fact that his head and shoulders were hanging over the edge of the basket.
Identification was established by a laundry mark, "L. J. R." on his underwear.

WINDSOR, Ont.: July 9.—A body, believed to be that of Lieut.
T. B. Null, the second missing
American balloonist, who disappeared with Lieut. L. J. Roth in the balloon A-6698, was found today in Lake Erie off Point Pelee near Leamington.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT LAYS RESPONSIBILITY AT HOME

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON, June 9.—The German government itself is responsible for the catastrophe deprecation of Germany's currency, according to the reichstag's committee of inquiry which issued its report today, says
a central News dispatch from Berlin. The report, adds the message, says the collapse of the mark was greatly due to extensive purchases
of foreign coal by the railway administration without notifying the reichsbank and other authorities.

WALTON TO TAKE FIGHT TO PEOPLE

Governor Declares Senators Did Not Express Will
of Voters.

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, July 9.—
Spurred by the criticism of the Democratic senators who met here
Saturday on his invitation, Gov.
J. C. Walton announced today that he would stump the state in the near future and "take my appointments to the people." Simultaneously it was announced at the executive offices that the governor would not call a special session of the state senate to pass on his recess appointments as was requested by the senators. It was indicated that the governor takes the position that the senators did not express the will of the people to whom he alone holds himself responsible.

Governor Walton was not at his office today. His only statement was: "I will take my appointments
to the people."
Aldrich Blake, his secretary, and Dr. E. T. Bynum, his advisor, then announced plans for the speaking tour. They said that no formal statement would be issued.

French Chamber of Deputies Approve
Treaty of Powers

(By the Associated Press)
PARIS, July 9.—The Chamber of Deputies today unanimously approved the Washington treaties relating to the Pacific. The chamber passed a bill approving the treaty concluded December 12, 1921, by France, the United States, Great Britain and Japan covering their island possessions in the Pacific and the declarations adopted on the same date relating to the Pacific mandates. It also accepted the complementary agreement made in Washington February 6, 1921, in which application of the treaty was specifically defined as it concerned Japan.

On Saturday the chamber approved the Washington agreement on the limitation of armaments.
Both treaties now go to the senate.

MOTION HEARING ON RODDIE CASE

Guthrie Judge Takes Bench
in Hearing on Motion
for Venue Change.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon, two witnesses remained on the state's list for testimony in the motion for change of venue of the case of Reuben M. Roddie, charged with murder before Judge C. C. Smith of Guthrie.

The defense had launched a battery of witnesses in the morning session of district court in support of their contention that a prejudiced sentiment existed in the county making an impartial trial impossible.

A motion to strike was offered by County Attorney J. W. Dean this morning, but Judge Smith agreed to hear the testimony of witnesses.
Affidavits of over four hundred citizens of Pontotoc county to the effect that a fair and impartial trial could not be obtained on the Roddie case was introduced this morning by defense attorneys.

A decision on the motion was expected to be rendered by Judge
Smith late this afternoon.

Endeavors Say Smith "Goliath"

(By the Associated Press)
DES MOINES, July 9.—Governor
Al Smith was called the "Goliath
of the Wets" in the address of R.
A. Walker of Chicago, at the International Christian Endeavor Convention here today.

The Wets are the Philistines of the present day," said Mr. Walker. "They have won a temporary victory and they have selected as their big blustering champion, the Governor of New York who is heralded as their great leader just as was Goliath, the defiant champion of the Philistines. He is challenging the Drys to battle. The modern Philistines apparently have things going their way and many of the Drys are relatively in the same position as King Saul's forces, fearful of results.

"Have we Drys so soon forgotten that the battle is the Lords? Are we standing in fear of the results
when we have God and truth on our side? Who is there among the wets that can stand against truth?
"Let 'Goliath' Smith beware.
Somewhere in the ranks of the Drys is a David with a mighty faith and a trusty sling. In the sling will be placed the stony votes that will hit the Goliath between the eyes—whether that Goliath at the next election be Al Smith or some other champion of the Wets.
Whoever the Goliath of the modern Philistines may be, he will be politically dead after election—possibly after the presidential primaries.

"The Wets are like frogs, they make a lot of noise but their noise
means nothing.
"Let the mighty Christian Endeavor host continue in their prayers and on election day use the sling and stone of their votes to kill the ambition of the wets to control of this nation."

PICKETS ARRESTED WHEN
JUDGE CLAIMS ILLEGAL

BROCKTON, Mass.: July 9.—One hundred pickets were arrested today as a result of an opinion by City Solicitor James E. Hemdrain, that picketing during the shoe strike
now in progress here is illegal.

Every cell at the police station was filled and the prisoners led by their leader sang America.

There was no disorder attending the arrests.

Nunlee told police he was awakened while asleep on his back
porch by loud voices in his back yard and discovered a man dressed
in black standing on the doorstep 10 feet from his bed.

"Who are you and what do you want?" Nunlee says he asked the stranger. The man did not reply but disappeared in the darkness and Nunlee says he fired at a dark object in the yard.

Before Breeding became unconscious he told neighbors that he had been robbed in his back yard
by a man he did not know, and that his assailant struck him on the back of the head and took $30 from him. He said he was trying to find his way back home when he was shot. He could give no further explanation as to how or why he was in Nunlee's back yard.

Boasts Unfaithfulness; Wife Silences Chatter

MRS. THERESA CONTURSI

(By Central Press)
CHICAGO, July 9.—Is a husband
signing his legal death warrant when he comes home to his wife and boasts of his infidelity?

That question will be decided in court here when Mrs. Theresa Contursi goes on trial for the slaying of her husband, Dominie.

Mrs. Contursi, according to the police, does not deny the killing.

According to the story she has told police her husband came home
full of moonshine and chestiness
over his "way with the women."

She claims that he became abusive and then boasted to her of his conquests in the feminine realm.

Mrs. Contursi is just twenty-four.
Before the tragedy cast its shadow

upon her she was regarded by her neighbors as comely, exceedingly so, and fair to look upon.

The brazen effrontery of her husband—she loved him, she told police—made her frantic. She alternately pleaded and threatened.
He added insult to her already injured feelings.

Then came a shot.

The boasting ceased. The paths of feminine conquest had led but to the grave.

Now it devolves upon a court of justice—a jury, perhaps, of twelve men and women, husbands and wives—to determine if a husband's boasts of infidelity to his wife merits death at her hands and justifies

(By the Associated Press)
MUSKOGEE, July 9.—With the death of John Breeding, 51, this morning police and county authorities are confronted with one of the strangest shooting cases on record here.

The shooting occurred in the back yard of the J. W. Nunlee, Breeding's next door neighbor. Nunlee admits the shooting. He says he fired at another man and hit Breeding of whose presence in the yard
he was not aware until Breeding fell.

The shooting occurred about 11 o'clock last night. Breeding died in the city hospital at 7:30 this morning after telling a story of being robbed.

Nunlee told police he was awakened while asleep on his back
porch by loud voices in his back
yard and discovered a man dressed

VETERAN JUDGE SUPREME COURT PASSES BEYOND

Justice Day, one of Prominent National Figures for Long Period.

SON AT DEATHBED

Fist Called Into Active National Service by President McKinley.

MACINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 9.—William R. Day, former associate justice of the United States supreme court died at his cottage
here at 5:30 o'clock this morning.
With him at the time was his son,
William L. Day, and the latter's wife.

The funeral will be Thursday
with burial at Canton, Ohio.

Death was due to a general breakdown following an attack of bronchitis last fall. The body will be taken to Canton, Ohio, today.
Justice Day was in his seventy-fourth year. He came here two weeks ago and although in failing health expected to benefit by the quiet of his summer home here.
He had spent his summers here
for the past 40 years.

Active Quarter of Century

Justice Day had been a notable figure in the national government
for more than a quarter of a century, serving conspicuously both in the executive and judicial capacities. He was called to Washington in 1897 by President McKinley who appointed him assistant secretary of state, then to the secretaryship and later to the supreme court from which he resigned November 14, 1902, to become umpire of the mixed commission to settle claims arising from the war. From this position he also resigned May 15 last after it developed that the activities and requirements of the bench
where he had tirelessly worked for 19 years had greatly impaired his health. Freed of all official responsibilities he then went to his home in Ohio as one of the three justices of the supreme court on the retired list.

While he did not specialize in any particular branch of the law while a member of the supreme court, Justice Day's great learning was recognized and he was selected to deliver some of the court's most important opinions, notably in the United Shoe Machine Corporation and Southern Pacific-Central Pacific cases. He read a dissenting opinion in the United States Steel Corporation when the case was decided in March, 1920, with the court divided 4 to 3.

Justice Day was a dyed-in-the-wool baseball fan. He never lost an opportunity to attend the big games
and frequently hurried to the ball park as soon as he could throw off his robes. During the world series he always managed to keep in touch with the games, having telegraphic reports play by play passed to him on the bench. These he read with keen interest and handed them
along the bench to his colleagues.

Bull on Warpath; Wrecks Train

sults were disastrous for the bull

A Coward of Conscience
By ELLA SAUNDERS

MRS. ELMIRA LOWNDES was left alone in the large house. Her husband had gone to New York on business; her son Robert was at college; her daughter Nellie had taken the car to visit friends.

Alone, except for Betty Smith, a distant cousin and maid of all work, Nellie was a gaunt, harsh-featured woman whom Mrs. Lowndes had taken under her protection after her uncle died.

Mrs. Lowndes was stock-taking. Not of her ample worldly wealth, but of those immaterial things that count for still more in the end.

She went upstairs and, raising a board in the floor of her bedroom, took out a tin box. Inside it was a parchment. On the parchment was written a will. It was the will of her cousin Hiram, Betty's uncle, and it devised the house in which Mrs. Lowndes was living, and the wealth which Mrs. Lowndes enjoyed, to "his dear niece Betty."

Mrs. Lowndes had found it a year or two after the proving of the former will, made when the old man and Betty had quarreled, which left her everything.

And if she published it, she would step down into obscure poverty, Robert would leave college, the daughter would go out to work, and Jim, her husband, who only played at business, would have to set to work in earnest.

Betty had lived with her uncle and kept house for him for years. When his death robbed her of her protector, when she found she was left penniless, Mrs. Lowndes had employed her.

After Mrs. Lowndes found the will she treated Betty almost as a daughter. Yes, the girl certainly had nothing to complain of!

This and other sophistries entered into their old contention with Mrs. Lowndes's conscience. After all, the girl had never known luxury; was it right that Robert's career should be destroyed, and four people reduced to penury, for the sake of this piece of parchment, signed by a querulous old man who didn't know his mind?

Nevertheless, Mrs. Lowndes had never destroyed the will. Dimly she felt that so long as it was in existence she had the chance of amending her ways. There was always the possibility of reparation.

And she had the New England conscience. Some day, when Robert was established, and she had put something by—then she would let Betty find the will.

Coming downstairs she slipped and fell, injuring her spine.

She awoke to consciousness a week later in a darkened room, with her family gathered at her bedside. She read her hopeless case in their faces. She sent for the clergyman and in weak tones confided the truth to him. Then she closed her eyes and settled herself for death.

Eight days later a very much improved and very resentful Mrs. Lowndes sat up in bed to receive the lawyer who had been sent for at her urging.

She had told no one but Rev. Mr. Samphire, and he was the soul of discretion. Nevertheless she had insisted that he should summon the lawyer.

Under her pillow she had the will. And, as the devil, when he got well, the devil a monk would be, bitterly and vehemently she regretted the insane folly that had induced her to make that confession.

Bob's career ruined, her husband and her daughter and herself, living in wretched poverty—all because of that uneasy conscience of hers.

She could hardly bear to look at any of them. As for Betty, she had made the girl's life miserable ever since her recovery began.

"Mr. Eames is here, Elmira," said the woman timidly, coming into the room.

"You'll call me Mrs. Lowndes. I don't have familiarities from servants," snapped Elmira.

Betty withdrew, the picture of surprise and injury. A moment later the lawyer entered the room.

"Mr. Samphire told you?"

"Yes, Mrs. Lowndes. Of course we must proceed carefully. We cannot risk a suit at law, not to speak of criminal proceedings. Let me look at that will."

"Oh, save me what you can!" begged the wretched woman.

Mr. Eames glanced at it and handed it back with a smile. "That will be invalid," he said. "It isn't witnessed."

Betty tapped at the door. "Did you want some tea, Mrs. Lowndes?" she asked.

"Tea? No! Betty, do forgive me, darling. I—I was unstrung, I guess," said Mrs. Elmira Lowndes.

Mrs. Lowndes had found it a year or two after the proving of the former will, made when the old man and Betty had quarreled, which left her everything.

And if she published it, she would step down into obscure poverty, Robert would leave college, the daughter would go out to work, and Jim, her husband, who only played at business, would have to set to work in earnest.

Her Counsellor Maintains Former Empress Manages to Keep Household.

(By the Associated Press)

VIENNA.—Recent reports from Spain that Zita, former empress of Austria and queen of Hungary, is facing immediate destitution, has prompted a denial from Count Albert Apponyi, her intimate counsellor, who has just returned from a visit to the ex-empress at San Sebastian. Zita, he says, has managed to get together sufficient funds to support a very frugal standard of living for the next two years, during which time she will not relinquish any effort to recover at least a portion of the private estates of the late Emperor Karl.

"Zita lives," explained Count Apponyi, "in the manner of a lower middle class family. Her grandmother, Archduchess Maria Theresa, lives with her, and they share a maid between them. For actual service they have a cook, a chambermaid, and a kitchenmaid. Naturally, with eight children there must be teachers for the older ones, and a nurse for the younger. The children cannot attend school because they do not know Spanish."

Count Apponyi, who always refers to Zita as "Her Majesty," said the former empress has been living all winter and most of the spring in an annex of the hotel at San Sebastian. She was previously in a delightful house in Lequeto, on the Bay of Biscay, which she was forced to leave because the owner did not care to continue letting it. Through the influence of the Spanish king he was persuaded to sell it, and a group of rich aristocrats purchased it for her Majesty. It is a comfortable and sufficiently commodious villa, and has been thoroughly overhauled to make it habitable winter and summer.

"The queen," continued Count Apponyi, "lives according to the severest regime. She rises every morning at five-thirty, wears the plainest clothes, avoids society, and devotes herself to her eight children. A deeply religious woman, she spends much time in prayer, and is supported by an almost fanatic sense of duty. She is not discouraged; dismay is absolutely foreign to her temperament. Sometimes she is even merry, and laughs a little, but she is a very serious woman."

NEW CATBOAT TROPHY REPLACES TAFT CUP

(By the Associated Press)

TOLEDO, July 9.—A new trophy, offered by Commodore S. O. Richardson, Jr., of the Toledo Yacht Club, and named for him, will be the prize which catboats of the lower lakes will seek in the regatta for their class to be held in Maumee Bay, July 12, 13 and 14. The trophy, emblematic of the catboat championship of the lower lakes will take the place of the President Taft cup, the prize of 14 annual races, given in 1908 by the former chief executive.

Competition for the Richardson trophy will be under conditions similar to those that governed racing for the Taft trophy. Each club will be permitted to enter three boats. The Taft cup has become the permanent property of the Toledo Yacht Club, having been presented to Commodore Richardson recently at a testimonial dinner at his club.

The catboat contest will be held preliminary to the annual Inter-Lake Yacht association regatta at Put-in-Bay, starting Sunday, July 15, and continuing through the week.

TILDEN TO TRY FOR CLAY COURT HONORS

(By the Associated Press)

INDIANAPOLIS, July 8.—Two of the three players who have won two legs on the National Clay Court Tennis Trophy will compete in the fourteenth renewal of the event here next week, according to the officials. They are William T. Tilden, world's champion, and Walter T. Hayes, Chicago player. The only other player to have won two legs on the trophy is R. Norris Williams, and it is said he may participate in the 1923 tournament. The cup becomes the personal property of the person who wins it three times.

The clay court championship prize was put up for play first in 1910, when M. H. Long won a leg on it. Others who won the event in the years following are W. T. Hays, in 1911; R. N. Williams, 1912; J. R. Strachan, 1913; C. J. Griffin, 1914; R. N. Williams, 1914; W. E. Davis, 1916; Samuel Hardy, 1917; William Tilden, 1918; W. M. Johnson, 1919; Roland Roberts, 1920; W. T. Hays, 1921; William Tilden, 1922.

A boys' and junior's open tournament will be held in conjunction with the National event. The tournament will run from July 9 to 14.

LEAGUE DIVIDED ON DISARMAMENT

Deadlock Apparent on Question of General Reduction of Armaments.

GENEVA.—The League of Nations appears to be moving toward a deadlock in its efforts to bring about a general reduction of armaments. The special committee that was to draft, for proposal to all League members, a general treaty to that end, with a mutual pact of guarantee to give effect to Article Ten of the covenant, has failed to accomplish anything. It is divided between the Cecil project or a general substitute guarantee pact, and a French substitute providing for limited agreements between two or more members.

The success of any such project calls for the assurance of security to such countries as France and Poland, which make it a requisite condition to any reduction in armaments. The French delegation insists that the Cecil project for a general guarantee pact does not give that security because several of the smaller members of the League, such as Switzerland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden, have made it clear that they will remain outside of it. These countries are not counted upon to furnish military aid under such an agreement, but their absence from the combination, it is argued, would make it impossible to apply the blockade to Germany for instance, and under the League covenant, the blockade is the first weapon that would be used against a prospective aggressor.

Cecil and his friends point out that the French project for regional agreements between two or more members tends only to the perpetuation of the old system of alliances and the development of groups of powers hostile to one another, such as existed before the world war.

The permanent military commission of the League, which pronounced the Cecil plan as unlikely to afford the assurance of prompt and efficient help for a menaced member that would justify it in reducing its armament, has been called upon to give its opinion of the French plan.

An earnest effort will be made to reach a compromise between the two projects, but failing that, a strong drive will be made in the assembly in September to reach a decision as to the application of the blockade, under the covenant.

WAR DEATH HELD INSURANCE AWARD

Death in Action on Battlefield Considered Accidental Cause.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 9.—The question of whether death in action on a battlefield could be considered an accidental death was decided in the affirmative by a recent opinion of the state supreme court in favor of the mother of Corp. Omar Churchill, of Altus, Oklahoma killed in France in October, 1918.

By the decision Mrs. L. B. Churchill's mother, will receive double indemnity on a life insurance policy for $1,000, held by her son before he was drafted in 1917.

According to Mrs. Jessie Moore, deputy clerk of the state supreme court, there have been only two similar cases aired in American courts since the war, one decision being in the affirmative and the other in the negative, but neither presenting solely the clearest issue of accidental death.

The opinion was written by Justice William P. Thompson, a Cherokee Indian, the only Indian who has ever occupied the state supreme bench.

Corporal Churchill was a member of Company M, 257th Infantry, American Expeditionary forces, and was mortally wounded Oct. 25, 1918.

In 1917, some months before he was drafted, the corporal took a $1,000 life insurance policy, bearing a double indemnity clause providing for payment of $2,000 in case of accidental death, issued by the Oklahoma National Life Insurance company, according to the opinion. The policy was re-written and taken over by the Great Southern Life Insurance company in 1918.

After receipt of notice of Corporal Churchill's death, according to the opinion, the company offered to pay Mrs. Churchill $1,000, but refused to pay double indemnity, claiming his death had not been accidental. In the Jackson county district court Mrs. Churchill won the suit she brought for $2,000 payment, and the supreme court opinion affirms that decision.

"The contention that the insured knew he would probably be killed in battle does not determine the question of liability in this case, and while it was to be expected that some of the soldiers engaged in the battle would be killed, yet it was unknown and unforeseen that this particular one would be killed," Justice Thompson said in his opinion.

German Girls Now Active in Modern Competition Field

(By the Associated Press)

BERLIN.—German women are today so keenly interested in sports that 230 competitors participated in a women's athletic meet held recently by a Neukoln club.

The star performer proved to be Miss Furchheim, a member of the entertainment organization who had previously won championship laurels. Her club won the meet because she herself captured five separate events. She was first in the 100-meter dash in 13.7 seconds after having gone the distance in 13.2 seconds during the eliminations. Then she took the broad jump at 5.11 meters. The next contest she won was a sort of "pentathlon" of three events—100-meter dash, broad jump, and high jump. And later she brought home the blue ribbon in the 400 meter and 1,000 meter walks.

Miss Benischke of a Zehlendorf club put the shot 7.74 meters for a win, and a team mate, Miss Hornig, won the javelin-throw with 25-60 meters. The former also won the high jump, clearing 1.30 meters.

The Market Square

IN OLDEN times every town had its Market Square. Everybody who had anything to sell took it there and likewise all who wanted to buy any particular commodity went to the Market Square in search of it.

The prospective buyer had no way of knowing that his search would be successful. The man with wares to sell had no means of bringing customers to him. It was just a sort of "happen so" arrangement.

But in these modern times a new order of things has arisen. The CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING sections of the daily newspapers have become the MARKET SQUARES of the Nation. The man who wants to buy and the man who has to sell are equally served without the element of uncertainty so typical of the old system.

SHOOTING OF GREAT SEA SCENES FOR "CHILDREN OF JAZZ" DELIGHTS CROWD

Seldo has such interest been evidenced during the production of a motion picture as was manifested during the filming of water scenes for the Paramount picture, "The Children of Jazz," which is now on view at the McSwain Theatre.

The story calls for a thrilling chase, having as its principals a large sailing vessel and a hydroplane piloted by Ted Carter, played by Ricardo Cortez, Clyde Dunbar portrayed by Robert Cain, is a passenger. The heroine, played by Eileen Percy, has been abducted by the schooner's crew—a rough lot, who have already apparently put their skipper Richard Forestall out of the way.

Between scenes, the production unit was getting everything in readiness for one of the most thrilling climaxes ever staged for motion picture purposes and was making every arrangement to insure the safety of the players. A considerable crowd had gathered on the location, and everything was declared to be in readiness for shooting. The hydroplane shot out across the water as the cameramen started turning. In a long graceful swoop the plane took to the air and headed for the schooner.

Its occupants, a short distance away, lying but a short distance away, its occupants, harnessed to parachutes, were preparing for their perilous descent to the boat's deck. Carter in the forward cockpit, when his plane was directly over the schooner, lashed his controlling lever fast and with his companion jumped, landing perilously near the edge though safely on the deck. The plane, as though yet under human guidance, because of the lashed control, glided gracefully away coming to a stop further out at sea. For Director Jerome Storm had seen to the little detail of fuel, placing in the craft's tank just enough to carry it with safety to where the schooner rested.

With the stunt successfully accomplished, the crowd lining the shore let out a cheer. This is but one of the many gripping episodes of a splendid production, a picturization of the stage play, "Other Times," by Harold Brighouse. The supporting cast includes Alec B. Francis, Frank Surrier, Lillian Drew and Snitz Edwards.

MORRIS CLOSES REVIVAL SERVICE

Many Added to Church List Through Sermons of Local Pastor.

The revival meeting which has been going on under the big tent on East Main under the auspices of the First Baptist church, came to a close last night with one of the greatest services of the entire meeting. The church house was well filled yesterday morning at the meeting. The pastor had announced that he would preach but the service took such a turn that they had an old fashioned testimony meeting and several had a part in the morning service and many people remarked that they had never heard a song that affected them as that song did. The large congregation was moved to tears.

Last night an enormous crowd greeted the evangelist, Mr. McCreavey led the people in singing many of the great old hymns and the people joined whole heartedly in the song service. The pastor preached on the subject, "Signboards to Heaven," using as a text these words from the seventh chapter of Matthew: "For straight is the gate and narrow is the way that leads to life, and few there be that find it." He showed the steps to salvation as follows: first, "I have sinned." The necessity of a consciousness of personal guilt. Second, "I repent," the necessity for repentance. Third, "Lord, I believe," the necessity for personal faith in Christ.

The preacher then launched into a description of heaven as given in the Word of God. A place where there was no sin; no sorrow, no sickness, no parting from loved ones. At the close of the service there were several professions of faith and six additions to the church. There were three additions at the morning service, making a total of nine additions for the day. There were more than fifty professions of faith in the meeting and forty odd additions to the church. The pastor is highly pleased with the results of the meeting and the summer meeting will be made an annual affair by the First Baptist Church.

Brother Morris wishes to express his thanks to all who had a part in making the meeting a success, but especially Mr. Nance for his tent which was turned over to the church for a nominal sum, and to the Sutherland Lumber Co., and the P. B. Wilson Lumber Co., for the lumber for seats, and to the Gay Electric Co., for the discount given on the lighting, to Ada Klan No. 27 for its seats, to L. T. Walters Music Store for the free use of the pianos, also Mrs. J. H. Boud and Miss Murray Lucas for their faithfulness and efficiency at the pianos, to Prof. W. A. Hill with his cornet, and Carl Spangler with his violin, to the Ada News for their generous publicity so cheerfully given.

The ordinance of baptism will be administered at the church tonight at eight o'clock at which time the pastor will make a talk on the subject of baptism. The public is cordially invited to this service.

OIL NEWS

The sand in the Surratt well in section 21-3-4, drilling by M. M. Valerius Oil and Gas Company, proved a disappointment, and drilling is proceeding. The sand was less than two feet thick, and some believe it is not a member of the Simpson series. The drill went into a hard limestone after penetrating the sand.

The well had all the appearance of a big one when the top of the sand was reached.

The hole is in good shape with the 8-inch casing set at about 1140 feet. The intention is to make a deep test.

This same company will drill another test on the same block of acreage.

It is reported here that the material is on the way for the 3,500 foot test north of Francis.

Farmers' Column

—By—
Byron Norrell

The honey crop in Pontotoc county is not promising this year. I have talked with several of the leading bee men and all say their bees are not doing much good. They attribute this to the long rainy spell in the spring which washed out the honey and also kept the bees in.

Saturday I talked with a number of farmers about the boll weevil situation. From what I gathered I am inclined to think that the insects are not nearly so numerous as last year. The cotton being so late the weevils did not get as early a start as they did last year and the hot weather is drying up the punctured squares. Of course there are a good many weevils here but there is room for hope that their depredations will not be so widespread as the past two years. Some farmers say they have been unable to find any in their cotton.

A few days ago when Agent J. P. Hill was in Vanoss A. H. White, who conducts the cream shipping station at that place, told him of the record of J. L. Tilley, a farmer near that place. In course of a year Mr. Tilley has sold approximately $500 worth of cream, milking from four to nine cows. During the same period he has bought just one sack of feed for his cows, raising the rest of it at home. Of course the skim milk was used in various ways and this would indirectly enable him to realize still more on his business. At the same time he has gone ahead with his crops, the dairy business being in the nature of a side line. Mr. White said that Mr. Tilley expects to stick to his cows.

Produce Market

CHICAGO, July 7.—Cooler weather and general rains have helped pasture conditions considerable, and while cream receipts usually decrease at this time of the year, they are holding up well.

The present market is influenced a good deal by expected imports of foreign butter, but on the present basis, consuming demand is increasing, and it would seem that the markets from now on should possibly show an improvement, being influenced by production.

Live hens are moving in larger quantities than a year ago, indicating that the laying season is pretty well over.

The markets on dressed fowl are influenced considerably by the heavy stocks of frozen poultry in storage and it is probable that present conditions will exist for the next several weeks.

Live broilers are not moving as freely as a few weeks ago, indicating that some of the early hatch were lost, due to excessive rains during the early season. Prospects are for a large late hatch, which naturally will influence the later markets.

Eggs are still going into storage in larger quantities than a year ago, at about the same values. Receipts in the past few days have shown a material dropping off, and consuming demand has improved, so that the market from now on may be some better.

SIDE-DOOR PULLMAN
IS HOME FOR CONSUL

(By the Associated Press)

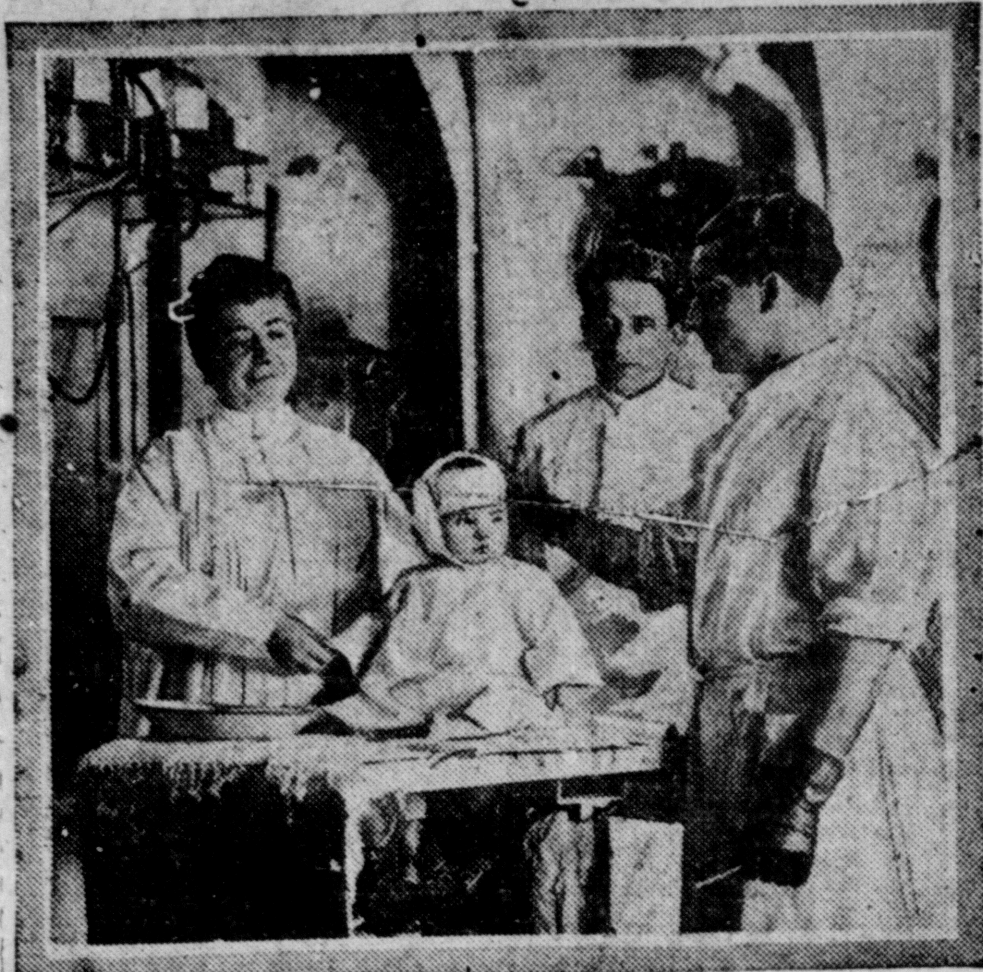

ANGORA, Asia Minor.—The only American representative in this far-off corner of Asia is a young Marylander, Charles Imbrie, of Baltimore. His duties include that of consul, trade commissioner, and consular agent to thousands of non-Muslims who are not popular in Turkey at the moment, and who believe America can perform miracles for them.

Mr. Imbrie had been living a hand-to-mouth existence in the poverty-stricken city for more than a year, but when he married Miss Katherine Gillespie of New York, director of the Near East Relief-Orphanage, recently, he thought it would be well to go house hunting.

Angora, however, has what probably is the most acute housing shortage of any city in the world, hence the young couple decided to set up housekeeping in the only box car to let in town and now the American flag waves from its sliding door.

Although a bit cramped for room, especially when company calls the American home on wheels is the cleanest place in Angora. It stands on a railway siding and is always ready to be coupled to a train for one of Mr. Imbrie's trips of inspection to outlying parts of Turkey. During these journeys, Mrs. Imbrie carries on her household as usual. In fact she finds a certain advantage in being able to take her house with her in her travels with her husband, and says that she will miss it when she returns to western civilization.

PAWHUSKA.—The St. Louis-San Francisco railroad is considering building of a line from a point north of Vinita in Craig county to Ponca City in Kay county, through Nowata, Bartlesville and Pawhuska, running east and west. It was announced at a meeting of the chamber of commerce here this week. The chamber of commerce of Pawhuska, Ponca City, Nowata and Vinita have appointed a joint committee to urge the extension.

Great Ocean Liners Now Have Real Modern Hospitals Aboard

Child receiving surgical treatment aboard the Conte Rosso

NOWADAYS hospitals on board ship are often found most scientifically equipped. Surgical and medical service is no longer a mere matter of first aid, for delicate operations are performed as in the leading hospitals ashore. There are separate wards for men and for women, consulting room, prescription room, operating room and isolation ward, all kept immaculately clean, with windows insuring perfect ventilation.

A recent incident which shows the value of these floating hospitals occurred when an American seaman on the Eastern King, a Shipping Board freighter, was transferred on the high seas in a critical condition to the fast Italian liner Conte Rosso, enroute from the Mediterranean, which was summoned by S O S. In thanking

Col. Dr. M. Serrati, American Representative of the Lloyd Sabaudo Line, owners of the Conte Rosso, W. J. Love, vice-president of the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, states:

"I have been requested by the Chairman of the United States Shipping Board and the Trustees of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, owners of the Eastern King, to convey through you to the master of the Conte Rosso Captain Cav. Uff. Fulvio Cignoni and his surgeon, Dr. Giovanni Valenzi, their deep appreciation of the humanitarian services rendered by these gentlemen to a member of the crew of our Eastern King, and to further compliment the master of the Conte Rosso on his splendid seamanship and willing co-operation."

Erratic Fielding Costly
To Ada Amateur Club Here
In Game With Holdenville

By out-hitting and out-playing the Ada Amateur baseball club here Sunday afternoon, the Holdenville invaders placed a one-sided victory over the record of the local club when the game ended in a 4-1 tune.

Costly errors in the second inning of the tilt accounted for a three-run rally that boosted the final score to a three-run lead. Timely hitting also favored the visiting team and went far toward bringing the final score to its perch.

Sealy, Holdenville twirler, was not unknown to Ada fans and was to a great extent responsible for the trouncing of the local team. Sealy held the local squad down to five hits and kept them scattered sufficiently to prevent the Ada tribe from taking their advantage.

Ada scored her lone runs when West reached home on an error at the plate after being batted from second by Waner's single.

Sealy enjoyed the batting honors for the visitors gaining three hits from his four visits to the plate.

Williams, Ada moundsman, could not muster his team to victory after erratic fielding had cut down the percentage. Williams permitted ten hits and struck out five of the batters to face him. He was handicapped with poor support.

WEATHER SUMMER

Matter of Using Common Sense Largely Responsible for Health.

(From Oklahoma State Board of Health, Dr. A. E. Davenport, Commissioner.)

Keeping Well in Hot Weather
Keeping well in hot weather is largely a matter of using common sense in aiding the body to carry on its normal functions in a normal way.

The human body possesses a wonderful means of keeping the body temperature constant even under extremes of heat and cold, but like any other automatic mechanism, you can't expect it to act satisfactorily if you over-load it or overdrive it when it is already under a strain.

When the weather is hot, the surface blood vessels are expended and the sweat glands bathe the body with perspiration. By its evaporation the skin is cooled, the rapidity and degree of cooling depending on the rate that the air is moving. Drafts are harmless in summer unless the cooling of the body is too rapid. A fan is as useful to the human machine as it is to an automobile.

A daily bath keeps the pores open. Light clothing aids in rapid evaporation of the perspiration. Some exercise is essential but over exertion in the hot sun should be avoided. Mexicans say "Only dogs and gringos work in the sun."

The matter of diet is one of importance. The Eskimo eats heartily of fats and oils, the tropic dweller lives largely on fruits and vegetables. There's a reason. Fats, sugars and starches are heat producing. Nature gave us green vegetables and fruits in abundance during the summer season. Over eating overloads the system. Eat moderately of a varied diet. Ice-cream sodas and sundaes may satisfy the palate and temporarily cool the throat but they are heat producers nevertheless.

Food, spoils more quickly in hot weather on account of the rapid growth of the organisms of decay. Be careful when away from home that food served is not tainted and that fruit is not over-ripe.

Plenty of cold water is essential. An extra amount is needed in summer on account of the activity of the sweat glands.

Plenty of sleep, or at least plenty of rest even if it is too hot to sleep, will aid keeping one strong and well during the heated period.

Hot weather, is, of course, a particularly trying time for infants. Breast fed babies usually have little trouble if the milk is of good quality, but if cow's milk is used it should be properly pasteurized, if not by the producer, at least in the home by the use of a simple home-made apparatus described in our booklet "Your Baby, How To Keep It Well."

VINITA, Okla.—Craig county courthouse employees, represented by D. F. Dial, county clerk, and Paul Simms, court clerk, have challenged members of the chamber of commerce to a hoisting contest of commerce to a hoisting contest to be held in "some needy farmer's corn or cotton field." The match is to be judged by the number of rows hoed and the numbers of men engaged in the contest, it was stipulated.

GOOD EVENING!

After Flu, Mrs. Albee
Gains 27 Lbs. On Tanlac

"The friend who told me about Tanlac was a friend indeed, for besides ridding me of all my troubles, the medicine has built me up twenty-seven pounds in weight," said Mrs. H. J. Albee, 1610 West 9th St., Oklahoma City, Okla.

"The flu left my stomach so disordered everything I ate disagreed with me. My food just seemed to collect in a heavy lump gas would form and distress me terribly. I was so nervous I couldn't get my proper rest, and often during the day I got so tired and weak I just had to lie down."

"However, my second bottle of Tanlac commenced to restore my appetite, and now I am eating just fine and everything agrees with me. I sleep like a log every night and never feel tired and worn out any more. I have recommended Tanlac to many people personally, and am glad to give this statement to let others know about it."
